Extract: xecution of capital punishment too would be a violation of Article 21 of the Constitution as an extended delay before the sentence is unfair and the uncertainty of life results in a severe traumatic condition for an individual. Article 21 of the Constitution, thus, is the only article that has received the widest possible interpretation because the right to life is fundamental to our very existence and includes all aspects of life which makes life meaningful and complete. Here, it is important to understand why, or rather how, the punishment of death and the procedure leading up to it ...
